ORGANIZATIONAL ANALYSIS

(Sec. 46A-68-82)
January 2016

In the review of the 2014 Plan, this section was found to be in compliance.

1. Job Title Study

Each office, position, and position classification authorized by the Department of Administrative Services or established by statute is shown arranged into lines of progression, depicting the order of jobs through which an employee may advance. The titles are organized from the highest position down to the lowest position.

Titles without promotional opportunity are identified and listed separately at the end of each category.

For Management employees, the titles are grouped into series, showing the progression within each series. Promotional and non-promotional titles are indicated as such.

Faculty titles are separated into three broad groups: regular faculty, extension system faculty, and research faculty. Within each group, we have noted the tenure track and non-tenure track titles. Promotional and non-promotional titles are indicated as such. In most cases, the non-promotional titles are the highest level in a given series. Some non-promotional titles such as Distinguished Professor are honorary, conferred by the Board of Trustees at the recommendation of the Provost.

Individuals in faculty titles belong to a collective bargaining unit, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). Approved AAUP titles are enumerated in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA), Article 1, Recognition. ATTACHMENT A.

Promotion to the next faculty level is governed by the University's Promotion, Tenure and Reappointment process (PTR), as found in the University Laws, By-laws and Rules, Article XIV and in PTR Procedures promulgated by the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. ATTACHMENT B. Faculty members themselves initiate a request for promotion to the next level in the series. A broad range of documentation and references must be provided with the PTR application, which is closely reviewed by colleagues and peers in the academic specialty. A PTR committee in each school/college reviews the materials and forwards a recommendation to the Dean, who forwards his/her recommendation to the Provost. The same process is followed when faculty request tenure, typically after six years of service, and normally at the rank of Associate Professor. The Board of Trustees gives the final approval on tenure awards for faculty by vote at a full Board meeting, usually in April of each academic year.

In the Professional titles category, UCPEA titles are identified separately. UCPEA titles were established more than a decade ago through a job title study conducted by the University. Each Job Classification is an assortment of titles and descriptions designed to facilitate a number of human resource management goals including recruitment, selection, and salary administration in an organized and consistent fashion. The UCPEA job classification system is structured to aid University administrators in understanding, organizing and working with a vast and complex array of professional functions. This is accomplished by having a systematic method for describing and providing titles for the different types of positions and utilizing common terminology and characteristics. Positions bearing sufficient commonalties are grouped together, assigned a single title, and treated similarly for the above listed Department of Human Resources (DHR) purposes. These titles are grouped in the job families and each series shows the lines of progression, with the highest title listed at the top.

The remaining Professional titles are also organized in a series showing the lines of progression in each series.

2. Occupational Category Study

For this Plan, each office, position, and position classification listed in the job title study has been placed in an occupational category with other offices, positions, or position classifications having similar job content, compensation schedules, and opportunity. The titles in each occupational category are listed from highest to lowest compensation with the salary range for each office and position.

There are no mandated salary ranges for Executive/Managerial titles or for the non-UCPEA nonteaching professional titles. As a result, the figures shown are the actual minimum and maximum salaries of employees in each title.

For faculty, the University does not have a compensation schedule because the AAUP CBU is based on the minimum terms of employment. The CBU requires that new hires be offered "no less than the lowest salary in each [professorial] rank in the previous academic year". ATTACHMENT C. Salary minima for 2015-2016 are: Assistant Professor $45,000; Associate Professor $63,501; and Professor $81,643.

While faculty titles progress from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor to Professor, salaries do not necessarily follow that same line of progression. Hiring salary is generally determined by other factors in addition to the minimum salary for the faculty rank of the position. These factors include the market value of the candidate's particular skill set, his/her reputation in their academic discipline, scholarly works, creative accomplishments, professional honors, and various other criteria. Academic disciplines frequently dictate the salary potential for a title and are not uniform throughout the University. Certain disciplines, such as Business, Engineering, and Pharmacy are compelled to offer higher salaries to remain competitive and attract employees who command substantive salaries outside the norm for academia.

For example, an Assistant Professor who has a significant number of publications in breakthrough research and whose specialty is in great demand in Engineering, may command a salary significantly higher than an Associate Professor in Geography, who is working in his/her academic discipline as a generalist. All faculty salaries are reviewed and approved prior to offer by the Provost's Office.

Salary increases during the faculty member's appointment include, in addition to the annual CBA cost of living increase, an additional merit award. ATTACHMENT D. Merit and special achievement awards are intended to recognize above average performance in teaching, research, and service. Faculty merit awards are discretionary and result in a wide range of salaries among those in the same rank.

For UCPEA bargaining unit titles, contractual salary ranges are used. Salary ranges have been updated to reflect contractual salary changes.

For Classified titles, the figures were also updated to reflect salary changes, per the collective bargaining union contracts.

Promotion, Tenure & Reappointment (PTR) Procedures

INTRODUCTION

The following Promotion, Tenure and Reappointment (PTR) procedures have been adopted by the faculties of the University of Connecticut (except those of the School of Medicine and the School of Dental Medicine) under the authority of the Laws and By-Laws of the University of Connecticut, Article XIV. They should be followed insofar as possible by all departments. If a school/college does not have departments, it should follow procedures bearing as much similarity to these as is reasonable. Each school/college and department may adopt and publish on their website additional criteria and policies that are consistent with the PTR policies and procedures presented here.

Rights of the Faculty Member

Access: In accordance with Article 12 of the AAUP Collective Bargaining Agreement and consistent with Connecticut Freedom of Information statutes, in the presence of a staff member, and at a time convenient to both parties, the faculty member shall have access to his/her full PTR file at all levels, including all internal and external letters. The only others who shall have access to the PTR file are (1) administrators and faculty members on official business and (2) AAUP representatives with the consent of the faculty member. In addition, the PTR file shall not include any anonymous material.

Appeal: If a faculty member has reason to believe that he or she has been denied any of the protections provided for or has suffered through any failure to observe these procedures, the faculty member may seek redress through the grievance procedure described in the Laws and By-Laws of the University of Connecticut, Article XIV.

The deadline for submitting PTR dossiers to the Provost's Office is:

December 6, 2014

I. Responsibilities

The Faculty Member:

It is the responsibility of the faculty member wishing to be considered for promotion, tenure, and/or reappointment to complete the PTR form and submit this to the Department Head along with any supporting documentation he or she chooses to include or as may be required by the school/college and departmental procedures. These documents become the faculty member's dossier. The faculty member's PTR File consists of his or her dossier plus all other written materials accumulated as part of the PTR process.

The faculty member:

- Shall provide to the Department Head a list of individuals with contact information who may serve as potential external references following the procedures detailed in Section IV;

- May add supplemental information to his or her PTR File at any time. Such information must be dated. No materials may be removed from a PTR File.

The Department Head:

- shall annually appraise the performance and potential for teaching, scholarship and/or creative accomplishments, and service of each faculty member eligible for promotion, tenure, and reappointment in his or her department;

- shall include for consideration for promotion and/or tenure all those who request in writing that they be considered;

- shall obtain and provide to the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee external letters of reference for each faculty member being considered for promotion and/or tenure following the procedures detailed in Section IV;

- shall obtain information requested by the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee from such sources as the Dean of the Graduate School, Directors of the regional campuses, and Directors of pertinent centers and institutes, and shall make this information available to the Committee;
- shall follow prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

The Departmental PTR Advisory Committee:

Each department shall have a Departmental PTR Advisory Committee selected according to a method approved by a majority of the faculty members of the Department. This Committee:

- shall advise the Department Head on promotion, tenure, and reappointment;

- shall review the faculty member's PTR File and appraise the performance and potential for teaching, scholarship and/or creative accomplishments, and service of the individual under consideration, basing its evaluations on the criteria listed in the Laws and By-Laws of the University of Connecticut, Article XIV. This evaluation should take into account the assignments of the individual, including appointment at sites other than the Storrs campus;

- shall advise the Department Head by making a formal recommendation by vote and summarizing its evaluation and vote in a written report;

- shall follow prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

The Dean:

- shall review the PTR file received under these procedures and such other pertinent information as he or she may require;

- shall base his or her recommendations, insofar as possible, upon a uniform application throughout the school/college appraisal criteria;
- shall include a written assessment of the faculty member's strengths and weaknesses in teaching, scholarship and/or creative accomplishments, and service;

- shall follow prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

The School/College Dean's Advisory Council Structure:

Each school/college shall have a Dean's Advisory Council on PTR composed of faculty members of the school/college selected by a method approved by the faculty in accordance with the following criteria:

- membership on the Council should be selected from tenured faculty who have been at the University of Connecticut for at least two years;

- those eligible to elect Council members should be department, or school/college members who hold tenure track appointments or planned continuing appointments;

- Department Heads should not serve as Council members;

- terms of Council members ordinarily should not exceed three years with staggering of terms to provide continuity;

- turnover of Council membership should be encouraged through restrictions on consecutive terms;
- an individual may vote at only one level (either at the department or the school/college level) on any faculty member under consideration. For example, Department Heads may not serve as Council members.

The Dean's Advisory Council:

- shall review the faculty member's PTR File and appraise the performance and potential for teaching, scholarship and/or creative accomplishments, and service of the individual under consideration.
- shall advise the Dean and record a formal vote;
- shall follow prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

The Provost:

- shall review the material received under these procedures and such other pertinent information as he or she may require;
- shall assure, insofar as possible, that recommendations are based upon uniform application throughout the schools/colleges of appraisal criteria;
- shall follow the prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

The Faculty Review Board:

The University shall have a Faculty Review Board to consider specific cases on promotion, tenure and reappointment. The Faculty Review Board is composed of six non-administrative, tenured full professors elected by the University Senate. The Faculty Review Board:

- shall consider the cases referred to it by the Provost under the procedures described below in Section II;
- shall review all the material received by the Provost, and may supplement this information with additional opinions;
- shall follow the prescribed procedures (see Next Section).

II. Procedures

The Provost will determine specific timelines annually in accordance with the date of presentation to the Board of Trustees. Before the start of the PTR cycle, the Provost will publish the timelines for that year and will make available the PTR form and guidelines approved by the University Senate.

1. It is the responsibility of the faculty member wishing to be considered for promotion, tenure, and/or reappointment to complete the PTR form and submit this to the Department Head along with any supporting documentation he or she chooses to include or as may be required by the school/college and departmental procedures. These documents become the faculty member's dossier. The faculty member's PTR File consists of his or her dossier plus all other written materials accumulated as part of the PTR process. Supplemental information can be added to the PTR File by the faculty member at any time. Such information must be dated. No materials may be removed from a PTR File.
2. The faculty member may request withdrawal from consideration for promotion in writing at any stage in the process.
3. The Departmental PTR Advisory Committee shall receive from the Department Head the dossiers of all faculty members to be considered for promotion, tenure and/or reappointment.
4. The Department Head shall collect pertinent information from such sources as the Dean of the Graduate School, Directors of regional campuses, Directors of centers and institutes, and other qualified individuals, and shall make this information available to the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee.
5. As part of its review, the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee (the Committee) shall provide to the faculty member and to members of the Department who so desire an opportunity either to appear before the Committee or to submit written statements to the Committee.

6. The Committee, after its review, shall provide the faculty member with an opportunity to appear in person to discuss substantive negative findings.
7. The Committee shall report its recommendations and appraisals with supporting evidence in writing to the Department Head. If the Committee's recommendation is not unanimous, its report shall include the dissenting opinions with supporting data. Rather than using words such as "unanimously" or "by majority," votes should be indicated numerically along with a key in the form: 6-1-2-1 (Yes, No, Abstain, Absent).
8. The Department Head, after his or her review, shall provide the faculty member with an opportunity to appear in person to discuss substantive negative findings.
9. The Department Head shall discuss his or her recommendation with the Committee.
10. The Department Head shall inform the faculty member of the recommendations by the Department Head and by the Committee, including the substance of any dissenting opinions. Reasons for a negative recommendation shall be in writing if either the Department Head or the faculty member so wishes.
11. The Department Head shall transmit to the Dean in writing his or her recommendations for promotion, tenure and/or reappointment, together with those of the Committee, the supporting data, and dissenting opinions. When neither the Committee nor the Head recommends promotion, no recommendation need be transmitted to the Dean unless specifically requested by the faculty member or the Dean.
12. If either the Department Head or the Committee makes a negative recommendation to the Dean, the faculty member may submit to the Dean a written statement presenting his or her case for consideration by the Dean and the Dean's Advisory Council. The faculty member must submit this statement to the Dean within one week after being informed in writing of the recommendation by the Department Head.
13. The Dean's Advisory Council (the Council) shall receive from the Dean and review the recommendations and supporting materials received from the Department Head.
14. The Council shall provide an opportunity for the faculty member to appear in person to discuss any substantive negative findings.
15. The final recommendation of the Council will be forwarded in writing to the Dean. Rather than using words such as "unanimously" or "by majority," votes should be indicated numerically along with a key in the form: 6-1-2-1 (Yes, No, Abstain, Absent).
16. If, after review, the Dean is inclined toward a negative finding, he or she shall provide an opportunity for the faculty member to appear in person to discuss any substantive negative findings within a reasonable timeframe.
17. If the Dean anticipates that he or she may be making a recommendation contrary to that of the Department Head, the Dean shall provide an opportunity for the Head and the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee to review and supplement their original recommendations.

18. The Dean shall inform the Department Head and the faculty member of the recommendations by the Dean' Advisory Council and the Dean. If either the faculty member or the Dean so wishes, reasons for a negative recommendation shall be in writing.
19. The Dean shall transmit to the Provost in writing his or her recommendations and those of the Dean's Advisory Council, the Department Head, and the Departmental PTR Advisory Committee, together with any dissenting opinions. When recommendations differ, the Dean must include a statement explaining his or her recommendation.
20. Positive recommendations by the Dean for faculty in their first and second year of full, six-year probationary appointments will be forwarded to the Board of Trustees with no further review.
21. The Provost, Dean, and Department Head shall meet to review any PTR cases selected by the Provost. These may include those where there has been a lack of unanimity or in which the Provost's recommendation may differ from that of the Dean or Department Head. In these cases, opportunity shall be provided to the Department Head and Dean to review and supplement the original recommendation.
22. The Provost, after his or her review, shall provide the faculty member with an opportunity to appear in person to discuss substantive negative findings and ask if the faculty member wants the case referred to the Faculty Review Board.
23. The Provost shall refer to the Faculty Review Board for its consideration:
    o those cases whose referral was requested by a faculty member or Department Head;
    o those cases where following a discussion the Provost's recommendations still differs from that of a Dean;
    o other cases that the Provost wishes to refer.
24. The Faculty Review Board shall provide the faculty member with an opportunity to discuss the case. The Faculty Review Board shall discuss each case with the Provost.
25. For each case, the Faculty Review Board shall submit a written recommendation to the Provost and shall inform the faculty member in writing of its recommendation, together with reasons for it.
26. If the Provost makes a negative recommendation, the reasons shall be in writing if the faculty member so requests.
27. The Provost shall make recommendations to the President for the granting of promotion and/or tenure by the Board of Trustees no later than the April meeting of the Board. In the case of reappointment, action will be taken by the President, who will inform the Board of Trustees of his or her decisions (per the Laws and By-Laws of the University of Connecticut, Article II).
28. Per the Laws and By-Laws of the University of Connecticut, Article XIV, at the end of the sequence of peer reviews (including the Faculty Review Board), a faculty member may appeal a negative decision by the Provost to the Committee of Three.

SALARY AND BENEFITS

III. Salary Minima

Effective July 1, 2007, the salary minima for each professorial rank shall be no less than the lowest salary in each rank in the previous academic year. Any proposed exceptions shall be discussed with the AAUP as is current practice.

Collective Bargaining Agreement between The University of Connecticut Board of Trustees And The University of Connecticut Chapter of the American Association of University Professors July 1, 2011 - June 30, 2016

ARTICLE 25
MERIT

Merit is for the recognition of noteworthy contributions to one's department, school, campus or college, the University and or professional discipline through the traditional avenues of teaching, research and service. It is also the most consistent means for moving beyond the cost-of-living increase traditionally recognized through the satisfactory performance increase provision. It is recognized that conditions vary within and among departments in terms of individual expectations, and it is agreed that awards at the various levels are designed to recognize individual achievement.

25.1 This article does NOT refer to Research Assistants or Research Associates paid from grant funds or contracts.

25.2 The merit pool shall be distributed according to the procedures outlined below:

A. The Provost shall establish a contingency fund and shall distribute the remainder of the merit pool at his/her discretion among the Deans of the schools and colleges. If a merit award is recommended, it shall be no less than $500.

B. The Dean of a school or college shall establish a contingency fund from the merit pool allotted to his/her school or college by the Provost. The remainder of the merit pool, excluding an amount for department heads' merit, shall be distributed at the discretion of the Dean among the departments. Prior to the beginning of the academic year, the Dean will publish his/her merit criteria to faculty and for Department Heads within his/her school.

C. The total amount of the contingency funds of both the Provost and the Deans shall not exceed 30% of the merit pool.

D. By means of a procedure approved by a majority of the faculty, departments may establish advisory committees for making recommendations for merit awards to the Department Head. Such committees may also present merit evaluations without mention of a dollar amount to the Dean for his/her consideration in determining the Department Head's merit award. In departmentalized schools each department may establish, by a majority vote, the criteria and also may establish priorities or the appropriate weighting of such criteria, that will be used to determine the departmental merit recommendations. In the event a department decides to permit the Department Head to establish the criteria and the appropriate weighting for merit recommendations, the Department Head shall inform all faculty members in writing of such criteria no later than two months prior to the commencement of the academic year for which merit recommendations will be made. In non-departmentalized schools equivalent arrangements shall be established by Deans and faculty members.

E. Department Heads shall take departmental committee recommendations into consideration when making their own merit recommendations. In concert with the PTR requirements identified in the By-Laws, merit criteria shall include instructional, scholarly, service, and outreach excellence as appropriate.

F. On forms provided by the Provost, Department Heads shall forward their merit recommendations for members of their departments, other than themselves, along with recommendations of the advisory committee, to the Dean of the school or college.

G. A faculty member may request from his/her Department Head information regarding his/her departmental merit recommendation(s) at any time after such information is transmitted to the Dean.

H. Department Heads shall inform each member of the department of his/her merit recommendation at the same time such recommendation is submitted to the Dean of the appropriate school or college. A faculty member has fourteen (14) calendar days from the time of the Department Head's submission to the Dean to discuss the Department Head's recommendation with the Dean.

I. The Dean shall review the recommendations of the Department Head and the departmental advisory committee. The Dean shall forward his/her own recommendations to the Provost.

J. Within two weeks of making his/her recommendations to the Provost, the office of the Dean shall compile and make available to the departments an abstract of merit awards. Such an abstract will give the number of people receiving a given range of award within the school and/or no award.

25.3 Once they become effective, the University will provide AAUP a summary of merit awards by fund and by individual.

25.4 Judgments and decisions of the Provost which result in decrease of more than 50% in the Department Head's recommendations are subject to the grievance procedure described below only where there is evidence alleging that the decrease was arbitrary or capricious.

25.5 Merit Grievance Panel
For the purpose of hearing merit grievances, an internal merit grievance panel shall be convened made up of one member of the administration chosen by the Provost, one member of the faculty chosen by AAUP, and a neutral party chosen by the first two individuals. The panel may either uphold or dismiss the grievance. In a case where the panel upholds the grievance, it shall recommend an appropriate merit award; however, in no case shall the panel award more than the Department Head had originally proposed. The decision of the panel is final and is not grievable or arbitrable. Grievances on merit must be presented to the administrator in charge of collective bargaining within fourteen (14) calendar days of the receipt of the Provost's letter notifying the employee of his/her merit awards.

In the University of Connecticut's Professional Employees Association (UCPEA) there are over three hundred and fifty (350) job titles listed under one of fifteen (15) separate job families. Within each job family there are specific classification series and levels, although not all titles are part of a series and have promotional opportunity. Titles without a series are listed separately at the end of each job family. Some of the entry level professional titles may represent a potential promotion for a Classified employee and these will be noted as Promotional. Occasionally, the highest title in a series may have an opportunity to promote across job families (ex. Administrative to Fiscal Services) or to Management and these will also be noted as promotional.

EEO 4 - EEO 7 Classified

Each position classification authorized by the Department of Administrative Services or established by statute is arranged into lines of progression that depict the order of jobs through which an employee may advance in the State Merit System. In certain classification series there may be additional progressions represented in the University of Connecticut Professional Employees Association bargaining unit and therefore such titles will not be identified as being without promotional opportunity. Titles without promotional opportunity are listed separately at the end of this study.

Please note that the classification listing identifies the non-promotional titles as the first listing in a series, followed by all related titles that are considered promotional.
